TRUST BETRAYED

It was reported in the news this week that a doorman was arrested for using the tenants' trust and keys to steal items from their East Side apartments.

At least six apartments had been burglarized of more than $250,000 between May and November of 2004. In October, a tenant noticed her safe was missing from her closet. Days later, the unique jewelry was found in Florida. The pieces had been pawned at a shop in Brooklyn. Another tenant who had heard of other burglaries in the building installed two surveillance cameras in his apartment. The doorman was seen on the videotape attempting to disable the one camera that he had found.

The doorman had allegedly used copies of the tenants' keys to gain access into the apartments. He faces up to 15 years in prison.

Ichanged my headlights the other day. I put in strobe lights instead. Now when I drive at night, it looks like everyone else is standing still ..." -- Steven Wright

UPCOMING MEETINGS
